May Name Group to Investigate Axis War Crimes

—Washington

Washington, Oct. 7.—President Roosevelt asserted today the United States was prepared to cooperate in establishing a United Nations commission, after the war, for the investigation of war crimes of the Axis and said it was the intention to mete out just and sure punishment to "ring leaders" responsible for the organized murder of thousands of innocent persons and the commission of atrocities.

It is the intention of the United States, he said, in a formal statement that the "success" of the war shall include provision for the surrender to the United Nations of war criminals.

With a view to establishing the responsibility of the guilty individuals throughout the collection and assessment of all available evidence, Mr. Roosevelt said, this government is prepared to cooperate with the British and other governments in establishing a United Nations investigating committee.

Declaring that it was not the intention to resort to mass reprisals, the chief executive predicted the number of persons eventually found guilty would be extremely small compared to the total enemy population.

Presidential Secretary Stephen Early, who distributed Mr. Roosevelt's statement, failed to answer a question as to whether Hitler and Mussolini were two of the ring leaders whose surrender would be required.

Mr. Roosevelt recalled that he had said last August 21 that the government constantly was receiving information about "barbaric crimes" being committed by the enemy against civilians in occupied lands, especially on the European continent.

The commission of these crimes continues, the president declared in today's statement, the text of which follows:

"On August twenty-first I said that this government was constantly receiving information concerning the barbaric crimes being committed by the enemy against civilians in occupied lands, particularly on the continent of Europe. I said it was the purpose of this government, to see that when these crimes shall answer for them before courts of law."

"The commission of these crimes continues, the president declared in today's statement, the text of which follows:

"I now declare it to be the intention of this government that the successful close of the war shall include provision for the surrender to the United Nations of war criminals."

"With a view to establishing responsibility of the guilty individuals throughout the collection and assessment of all available evidence, this government is prepared to cooperate with the British and other governments in establishing a United Nations commission for the investigation of war crimes."

The number of persons eventually found guilty will undoubtedly be extremely small compared to the total enemy population. It is not the intention of this government or of the governments associated with us to resort to mass reprisals.

It is our intention that just and sure punishment be meted out to the guilty individuals.

Aussies Retake Main Gap in New Guinea Range

—War in Pacific

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Australia, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The mile-high gap in the Owen Stanley range apparently was firmly back in Allied hands today with Australian advance forces, still on the offensive, pushing on toward the downslope to the Japanese base at Kokoda across the mountains from Port Moresby.

The chance of a Japanese stand in the high ridges seemed hourly more remote as dispatches from the inland New Guinea battlefield reported the Australians continuing their cautious, steady advance on the front of the Japanese who once pushed within 32 miles air line of Port Moresby before being outflanked and hurled back.

By yesterday the Australians were moving up the last mountain grade north of Kagi, within four miles of the gap through the high-borne Herndl estimated that by early today they had pushed through within 40 miles of the end of the pass—headed for the downslope, still without resistance.

Nazi Reign of Terror Brings Arrest of 700

London, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Nazi Commissioner Josef Terboven and new contingents of German secret police enforced a reign of terror in the Norwegian province of Trondheim today after executing 70 prominent Norwegians and arresting an estimated 700 more in an effort to stem a rising tide of sabotage, reports to Scandinavian circles here said.

A state of emergency has been proclaimed in Trondheim and a coastal strip 400 miles long. Terboven announced severe punishment would follow the slightest insubordination. Terboven had been in Trondheim only a few hours yesterday when a Nazi firing squad claimed the lives of the first ten victims.

"They seem to have come down and haphazardly picked out prominent citizens and shot them as a form of intimidation of the population," the Norwegian telegraph agency here said. Norwegian government quarters said the official German report of the shooting claimed the "men were shot at a moment" for several acts of sabotage.

None of the men was under arrest, accused of any specific crime or even held as a hostage, these sources said.

Announcing that the new measures were intended to "break the sabotage threatening the country's supply system," Terboven was reported to have declared:

"My generosity is finished. Nothing will change in my uncompromising decision to smash the enemy's manipulations and provocations."

A Stockholm radio report intimated that hostile action had been directed against German army and that efforts had been made to sabotage the Trondheim-Mosjøen railway.

A power station at Tannrem also had been dismantled, shutting off power and forcing the Germans to stop work at a naval base under construction, London reports said. Shipyard workers were forbidden to leave the yards.

The tide of resentment against German domination swept little Danish sources here expressed the fear the nation would vanish soon as a German federation of North Sea islands.

The Oslo radio reported an increasing number of clashes between 1,100 Danish volunteers now on leave from the Russian front, where they have been fighting, and the Nazis, and Copenhagen residents feared the nation's police forces might be turned over to these Danish Nazis.

Meanwhile the interior information committee reported that food stocks of the occupied country had been plundered so thoroughly by the Germans that many people were on a starvation diet. The Belgians, for example, were reported living mainly on bread and turnips. Throughout the occupied territories, meat is almost non-existent, the report said.

Goals for Food Production in U. S. Increased

By OVID A. MARTIN

Washington, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Faced with increasing war demands for food, the Agriculture Department has drawn up tentative production goals for the 1943 crop season and for even greater acreages and output of most farm products than was requested under the record 1942 production program.

Officials who preferred not to be named said increases would be asked for despite prospects that farmers would have to get along with less manpower, machinery, fertilizer and other facilities. Needs to be much greater than were expected a few weeks ago.

As a hedge against the possibility that farmers might be unable to meet the 1943 goals, the department was working on plans to reduce civilian consumption of a number of essential foods.

Preparatory to consumer rationing to be inaugurated the first of the year, civilians to limit meat consumption to two and a half pounds a week.

For the 44 newly-designated areas, price administrator Leon Henderson recommended the ceiling be placed at the rents in effect March 1, 1942.

McCallough said that areas in the OPA region where rent control already is in effect are Bluff, Benton-Baxie, Blytheville, Malvern-Hot Springs, Mississippi-Joplin, Rolla-Waynesville, St. Louis, Kansas City and Pike County.

Areas designated for rent control as soon as possible: Arkansas—Camden, Fort Smith, Hope, Newport-Walnut Ridge, and Missouri—Springfield and Sedalia.

Senate Votes Combined Corporation Tax, Lowers Credit for Dependents

Washington, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The Senate voted today for a 40 percent rate for corporations with $50,000 or more net income after deducting $25,000 for tax on corporate income.

La Follette was turned down, 75 to 9, after Senator Taft (R-Ohio) told his colleagues that the stiff taxation would destroy initiative and "might wreck the success of the war effort."

Before turning to the controversial question of taxing future issues of state and local securities, the Senate formally adopted a finance committee amendment lowering the credit for an income taxpayer's dependents from $400 to $300. The amendment had been skipped over yesterday.

The change still must be approved by the House, which left the $400 figure unchanged. La Follette charged that the bill failed to raise "a reasonable maximum of revenue which is available without undue sacrifice," failed to plug loopholes of the present law and failed to raise large incomes and inheritances heavily enough.

He said the high individual income tax rates in the lower brackets also threatened to encroach upon "the effective standards of living," in effect taxing bread out of people's mouths.

La Follette proposed to raise an additional $219,000,000 annually by increasing surtaxes on corporations with yearly income of $25,000 or more so that they would pay a combined normal and surtax rate of 50 percent.

Other increases he proposed included: Compulsory joint individual income tax returns, $300,000,000; luxury taxes, $225,000,000; elimination of percentage depletion on oil, gas, coal, and other minerals, $124,000,000; increased individual income surtaxes, $208,000,000; and increased estate and gift taxes, $193,000,000.

La Follette charged that the bill failed to raise "a reasonable maximum of revenue which is available without undue sacrifice," failed to plug loopholes of the present law and failed to raise large incomes and inheritances heavily enough.

Hope Drive Nets 50,000 Pounds Scrap

More than 50,000 pounds of scrap metal has been collected in the campaign in Hope this far, R. E. Jackson, vocational instructor of Hope High School, announced at noon today.

Vocational students picked up scrap piled at the curb by householders this week and loaded it in City of Hope trucks.

The trucks covered Ward One on Monday, Ward Two on Tuesday, and were covering Wards Three and Four today.

The scrap metal will be cleared through the local metal dealers, the proceeds of the sale being donated to the Army Relief Society.

Mr. Jackson extended thanks in behalf of the scrap campaign to the Temple Oil company's local plan, which weighed in the scrap collections.

Marshall Semon Timoshenko's shock divisions maintained ground-gaining pressure against the strongly entrenched German northwest of the city, dispatches said. This area likewise has never been specifically defined, other than as embracing a region of the steppes between the Don and the Volga.

Numerous tanks are operating in this area and small detachments are playing an ever bigger role in the fighting, Red Star said.

Nazi infantrymen were reported crammed into trenches in the steppes. The government newspaper Izvestia said the Germans had burned literally hundreds of tanks—out tanks for use as pillboxes.

The Germans were reported to have strong air forces in the area. Izvestia said Red Army anti-aircraft batteries accounted for 10 in a day.

The noon communiqué said fierce fighting continued in the Stalingrad area in this 44th day of the siege. All of a half dozen attacks by a supported German infantry battalion were declared repulsed in one area with destruction of five tanks.

"A height defended by Red Army men of one unit was attacked 10 times by the Hitlerites," the communiqué said. "In this fighting the enemy lost more than 100 in killed."

A similar action southeast of Novorossiysk was declared to have cost a newly-arrived Axis infantry unit about 400 dead in two held to the height, which was described as of great tactical importance.

Forming of Soviet lines in the central Caucasus apparently followed a withdrawal from one combat area to the Mordok area, a retreat announced at midnight.

The noon communiqué said only of the repulse of tank and infantry attacks in that area before Grozny.

Defenders of Stalingrad Hold for 44th Day

—Europe

Moscow, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Marshal Semon Timoshenko's counter drive between the Don and the Volga, deeper today into the north flank of the German wedge into Stalingrad and Russian dispatches said the Germans were falling back desperately upon trench warfare in an attempt to halt the onslaught and save their positions.

At Stalingrad, whose fate hung in the balance, the German hurried whole new divisions, fresh from the march, into the bitter street fighting against outnumbered defenders who sagged before the impact but surged back and held through the 44th day of siege.

Dispatches from the battlefield said that across the steppes north of Stalingrad the offensive was firmly in Russian hands in a relief attack of increasing scope against hastily dug German trench lines studded with half-tracked tanks as strong points.

At one point along the line the Russians reported killing 1,200 German troops and capturing others who tried to hold a small village, and in other sectors the counter thrust was declared to be gaining ground and improving the Russian position.

The army newspaper Red Star said a dangerous situation developed as the Germans reached the depth of an industrial settlement, but heavy Soviet counterattacks cleared much of the area.

The Red Army men were reinforced by night and new fighter planes flew to their aid.

The Germans were declared hurled from the streets, houses, gardens and orchards by German-led by elite guards.

Explosive and incendiary bombs caused considerable damage to houses of the settlement and many civilians were among the casualties.

Notation of the settlement was not announced, but many of the Soviet factories in that area are several miles from the city. It is obvious that it was not the workers' communities along the Volga, because no dispatches mentioned the river.

Finds Morals of U. S. Soldier in Britain Very High

By DWITT MACKENZIE
Special War Analyst
London, Oct. 7.—This is a friendly, intimate message to the folks back home about the moral welfare of their boys in the Army over here and it is good to be able to say that at the start that while there are some rather spotty places you can rest easy in your minds.

I figured you'd be anxious to know how things are going and were entitled to the facts about a subject that is very close to the hearts of all of us. I had heard some stories and observed some things which, while not of vast importance in themselves, set me to thinking.

So I've been looking about a bit and talking with Army people who know how the battle of morals really goes.

away to a good start through a clean word dropped by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower during a conversation with him on military affairs. It is not permitted to quote him, but his remark was, in effect, condemnation of loose living and showed clearly his abhorrence of that sort of thing.

Since then I have run across plenty of evidence that the AEF commander in chief is indeed a clean-liver and sets an exemplary standard for his men. It is small wonder, then, that we find the vast majority of them keeping step with him and members of his staff who make it their business to try to keep stragglers from falling out of line.

Right here, and before we discuss those spotty places, I'd like to introduce the testimony of two distinguished officers immediately associated with the welfare of our boys.

First meet Colonel James L. Blakeney, kindly-faced, business-like chaplain-in-chief, who tells me General Eisenhower "backs his chaplains up 100 per cent."

Twenty-six years he's served in the United States Army, and he's remarked with a grin:

"I've seen a lot of life in that sure, he's seen a lot and he knows those spotty places, I'd like to introduce the testimony of two distinguished officers immediately associated with the welfare of our boys."

Willkie Urges Offensive on All War Fronts

Chungking, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Wendell Willkie called upon the United Nations today for an "all-out offensive everywhere" and said he expected to dedicate his life to urging a post-war world "where all men can be free and with governments of their own choosing."

It is my personal opinion that the time has come for an all-out armed offensive everywhere by all United Nations," Willkie said in a statement on his tour of 15 nations.

torpedoes into the Galatea. She hurled over immediately, and disappeared in two minutes.

I went through the most agonizing moments of my life. I couldn't swim, and knew that I was going to die. I murmured a prayer to God, rushed to the starboard side of the cruiser, and tried to blow a bit of air into my lifebelt. The cruiser turned over and I slid feet first down her starboard side into the sea, now covered with a thick scum of oil.

I went under a time and again. I swallowed gallons of oil and water. I screamed. I prayed. I fought my way to the surface time after time. Forty-five minutes of this hell, and finally rescued by a fish. Sailors pumped oil and water out of my lungs. He's finished. But I kept thinking, "What a swell story. I've got to live. I took months to get all the oily scum and that in anything connected with him, and I wrote my story as soon as I landed—and I was as naked as the day I was born. Then I went to bed for a week."

Unemployment Benefits in Arkansas Drop

Director Roland M. Shelton of the Arkansas Employment Security Division announced today that unemployment compensation benefits paid in Arkansas during August amounted to $118,610, an increase over July of 92.2 per cent.

Mr. Shelton explained that no valid comparison can be made between August and July, since the new benefit year under the Arkansas law begins on July 1, and a good portion of the month of July is not devoted to benefit payment activity wholly, but to determining weekly benefit amounts and duration of initial claims by the agency as well as the serving of the waiting period week by each claimant.

We've found fault with a lot of things about the national tax situation, and unless congressional plans change we'll do a lot more complaining. How pleasant it is, then, to be able to toss a bouquet at the direction with some sprays in the years now we've had to wander around the streets once for a seeking a notary public who for a quarter or so would take our oath that we hadn't knowingly lied in the tax law already made in perpetuity to lie even though we hadn't visited a notary.

Only in the case of three crops—wheat, short staple cotton and commercial vegetables—are tentative goals below those set for 1942. Supplies of wheat and short staple cotton are sufficiently large, officials said, to permit lowered production.

Crop and Feed Loans Now Are Available Here

Emergency Crop and Feed Loans for 1943 are now available to farmers in Hempstead county, and applications for these loans are being received at Hope by John H. Barrow, field supervisor of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Section of the Farm Credit Administration.

Because of war conditions a serious shortage of nitrogen for commercial fertilizer in 1943 is anticipated. Farmers must realize, now more than ever, the importance of growing their own fertilizer. The availability at a much earlier date of the 1943 Emergency Crop and Feed Loan lending facilities should encourage eligible farmers to plant scrap materials for green manure, soil building and soil conservation crops for better pay "usage" to supply their needs for nitrogen in the spring.

Others were credited to First Lieut. Victor E. Wallon, Indianapolis, and First Lieut. Robert L. McDonald, Reno, Nev.

Lieut. Col. Jack Chennault and Canadian Squadron Leader Ken Boomer were also in the list. Boomer led the Canadians in their first encounter with the enemy on this front. He watched a victim ride a plane to within 50 feet of the water then lost his nerve and try to parachute. The parachute, of course, didn't open in time.

While most of these fights were going on bombers were busy giving ground installations and Jap ships lots of trouble. I have finished their last month of conquest against the Nipponese invaders with the remarkable average of 22 enemy planes downed for every American lost.

CHAPTER XXIV

HALFWAY up the stairs Peter stood.
Once before they had stood like this, Peter ascending a stair, she in a billowing gown at its head. The similarity must have struck him: he stood an instant, as though doubtful, searching her face for some sign of remembering, of pain.

She ignored his hesitation. She flung the door invitingly wide, smiling. "Boy, you got here almost as quickly as I did," she said gaily. "How come, did Uncle Bruce phone you?"

"Dad?" he said, puzzled. "No, why should he?"
She saw that he hadn't yet talked with Bruce. "Oh, nothing," she said, "except that I had lunch with him and I waited around for a while on the chance you'd come. I thought he might have told you."

"No," he said, "no, I haven't seen Dad since I left this morning." Peter sprawled himself comfortably in a chair. "When," he said, "you've been harder to reach than a past couple of weeks than a foreign ambassador. I've been phoning you almost daily. I expected at least you'd call back."

"I didn't even get the message," Candace said. "But that isn't Flint's fault. I've been on a case until just two days ago, and I wanted a couple of days to shop before going away, so I told her if anyone called just to say I couldn't accept another case."

"Going away? Vacation?" Peter asked, glancing at the new clothes and heavily laden trunks. "No," she said shortly. "The same case."

She felt flushed and uncomfortable, she didn't want to have to discuss the Harper case with him. She added reluctantly, "Old Mrs. Harper. Do you know her? She's Dr. Patterson's case. She thinks that a trip to Nassau will set her up again, and she wants me to go along to take care of her."

"I think I've heard her mentioned," Peter said noncommittally. "It's the patient I mean, though, that shouldn't be anything for you. She's more or less of a neurotic, isn't she? You'd be wasted—and you'd be bored stiff."

thought he looked tired, and now she saw that his shoulders had a weary, discouraged droop. "That shoots my proposition then, I guess," he said.
She said firmly, steeling herself against the appeal in that tired voice, those eloquent shoulders, "If it's another case, I'm afraid so." Then she added, more gently, "What is it, Peter? Something special?"

PETER turned about. "Does the name Eustis mean anything to you? It should, it's a pretty important one in this town. Young Mrs. Harvey Eustis has just had a baby. A week ago, by Caesarian section. The operation went fine, everything went off swell, but—well, she just doesn't seem to want to get better."

"Why? Unhappy with her husband?"
Peter had begun a jerky pacing up and down the room. "She shouldn't be," he said impatiently. "Eustis is a pretty decent chap all round, good-looking, pleasant as they come, and he adores her. Add to that a father and mother who dote on her, who have given her all her life everything she wanted, and now this little boy that's cute as a button—"

"Sounds like a recipe for a full and happy life," Candace commented.
Peter stopped his pacing. "Mrs. Eustis is the former Faith Hartshorne," he said.

Candace whitened as though he had struck her. She reached for a cigarette finally, lighted it with unsteady fingers. When she felt she could trust her voice, "She didn't wait very long, did she?" she said.

"I think that's what she feels. I think that's part of it," Peter said gravely.
After an instant of heavy silence Candace snuffed out her cigarette impatiently and rose. "I don't see what you expect me to do about it. Me, of all people."

"I don't expect you to do anything. But for some reason she wants you, she's been asking for you, the nurse who was in Emergency at the time of the accident. Her father's almost frantic, he'd offer anything to induce you to come."

"Nothing could induce me." Her voice was hard. "There's no reason why I should do anything for her."

WE HAVE SOME REAL BARGAINS in Bedroom suites and studio couches. Try us. We buy, sell and trade. Moved next door to Shipley Studio. Ideal Furniture Store. 28-1mp.

He had gone again to the window and stood with his back to her, staring out. The eloquent droop of those shoulders hurt her. He had probably been planning to get married on the strength of this, and if it went wrong—

SHE said cheerfully, as though wishing to change the subject, "I hear you're being married, Pete."

He whirled sharply. "Who told you?"
He had blushed crimson. Candace said lightly, "I don't think the person who told me meant to do it. It slipped out."

"But who?" he insisted angrily. "No one you can punch in the nose for it," she said smiling. "It was Dr. Patterson. Since apparently it's meant to be a secret," she tried to hide her hurt at that under a light tone, "I won't refer to it again. But I'd like you to know," she added gently, "that I think the gal's awfully lucky, Peter; and that I wish you both all happiness."

Peter said, gruff, embarrassed, "Thanks."
She busied herself with a package to avoid looking at his strained face. She thought, if anybody ever deserved a break, it's Peter. . . . She was remembering suddenly in an uprush of warm feeling the innumerable things he had done for her, and she found herself saying quickly, "Very well, Doctor, when do I report for duty?"

Testy old Mrs. Harper would probably fling her aside in outraged indignation. That would mean that Duffy would be lost to her too, and with him all the well-ordered future. The dreary waiting would begin again, the waiting for another break that might never come. But she said reassuringly to Peter, "It doesn't matter."

After he had left, Candace went again to the mirror. She looked at the mouth that made her appear such a practical person, a woman capable of making sensible decisions. "Liar!" she accused it. But she was faintly smiling. (To Be Continued)

John T. Norman, Former Resident of Nevada County, Dies

John T. Norman, age 55, and a former resident of Nevada county, died at his home in Longview, Texas, Saturday. He is survived by his wife, one son, Sgt. Eugene Norman of Camp Tula Lake, Cal.; his father, E. E. Norman of Warren; and three sisters, Mrs. Will Brannon of Memphis, Mrs. A. D. Jenkins of Fort Smith and Mrs. Jewell Moore of Hope.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete, Tuesday afternoon. Work on Surgical Dressings is progressing with great enthusiasm and interest. Approximately 96 women have reported at the Production rooms, in the Presbyterian church, and they have made a number of dressings.

The Sewing Room, at the Methodist church, is receiving generous response from volunteer workers. Both divisions, however, call for more workers.

It is hoped that every woman will feel the call to serve on the home front, and lend a hand in completing the present quota, all of which is to be used in our own country.

U. S. Prisons Doing Great Job in Wartime

By JACK STINNETT

Washington—There probably isn't a lad going off to the wars these days who isn't packing something or using something that was made in this country's prisons.

Already more than 100 prisons (and at least one in each of the 48 states) are going all out on war materials. Prison farms and dairies are contributing to the food production program. Prison shops and machine shops are turning out hundreds of articles that go into the uniforms of war: tent stakes, camouflage cloth, airplane castings, bomb parts, ammunition boxes, tool chests, and what not.

The prison industries section is part of the War Production Board. It was organized by Murray Maverick, chief of the bureau of government requirements, and is one of the pets of the former congressman and San Antonio mayor. It is directed by Dan Turner, former governor of Ohio.

Having had to overcome the hurdle which prison labor is always up against of not infringing on the rights of organized labor, prison production still is in its infancy. It has, however, been given the green light by a Presidential directive just issued. This removes some of the legal obstacles surrounding the sale of prison made goods.

The point is that everything turned out by the prisons now operating under the program goes directly to the Army, Navy, or lend-lease. Maverick and Turner hope eventually to put the whole force of 100,000 prison laborers, many of them skilled mechanics and machine tool operators, back of the war effort.

There are for example cotton spindles operated by state prisons capable of turning out 20,000,000 yards of 12-ounce fabric a year. Jute, no longer available from India, is being replaced by Osmun cloth fabricated from cotton grown on prison farms in the south. This is turned into camouflage cloth and sand bags. Vegetables and fruits from thousands of acres of prison farms are being canned in prison canneries. Maverick can reel off all the figures, but he likes to talk most about what all this is doing to prison morale. One of his favorite stories is about a young man serving a life sentence in a Georgia prison.

It's the young fellow's first stretch. Almost the first day of his sentence, he went berserk. Within a few weeks, he had drawn every kind of punishment the prison could mete out. He was a bad one and considered almost incurable. When Pearl Harbor came he was doing a long stretch in solitary confinement.

He heard the news and asked to be taken to the warden. He pleaded. He asked to be put to work on war materials. The warden couldn't believe his ears, but he

Vandenberg Takes Side of Marshall Field

Washington, Oct. 6.—(P)—Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), today took sharp issue with publisher Marshall Field in his fight with the Associated Press, saying "this war has done enough damage to the free flow of public information without using this critical moment to permanently hamstring the basic principles underlying a free press."

Vandenberg and Senator Byrd (D-Va.) also challenged, in statements to the Baltimore Sun, the government contention in an anti-trust suit that the AP should be classified as a common carrier and available to all newspapers.

Field, whose Chicago Sun was denied AP membership, told a convention of Canadian newspaper circulation managers in Peterborough, Ontario, yesterday that the AP is a "monopoly" and as such a "distinct threat to my nation's future."

Cards Finally Find a Winning Combination

By JUDSON BAILEY

New York, Oct. 7.—One of the reasons the St. Louis Cardinals were able to spring a surprise on the New York Yankees in the National Series, and on a lot of other people including the Brooklyn Dodgers, was that they finished with a different team than the flustering Redbirds who started last spring.

When the Cardinals came streaking down the stretch in the National League, their rivals considered themselves with remembrance of the earlier Redbirds and figured they would return to their previous pace.

It took the World Series to prove that winning 43 of their last 52 scheduled games was not the natural gait of the Cards than their performance in the first half of the season when they reached the all-star game with a record of 43 wins and 29 losses.

At the start of the season the St. Louis infield had Rookie Ray Sanders on first, Frank Crespi on second, Martin Marlon at short and Jimmy Brown at third. The experts were saying the Cardinals had sold away the pennant chance by letting big John Mize go to the New York Giants.

George (Whitey) Kurowski, whose homer in the fifth game of the World Series clinched the championship for the Cards, was considered likely timber for Rochester or Columbus, or some other Redbird farm. His short right arm, from which three inches of bone were removed in a childhood operation, made him a dead leftfielder.

Kurowski rode the bench for weeks and it was not until his closest friend, Crespi, failed to hit that the Reading, Pa., rookie received his chance.

The Cards dropped a doubleheader on May 24 and at that point had won only 19 games to 17 lost. Manager Billy Southworth decided the time was ripe to start masterminding.

The next day Brown moved to second and Kurowski became the regular custodian of the hot corner. The team won four straight.

Then came the next step in the revitalization of the Redbirds. On May 27 Johnny Lopez was installed permanently at first base. The change would have been made earlier except that Hopp had injured a thumb soon after the season started.

However, right along about here the Cards received a dose setback because their two sizzling stars, Ernie White and Howie Pollock, developed arm trouble. A lump as big as a chestnut swelled up on White's left arm and he could not raise his hand to throw the ball.

He pitched an eight-inning hitless game on the day Kurowski made his debut, May 25. But from then until June 19 he never got into another ball game and he never won another game until July 1.

This pitching problem helped lead to the discovery of Johnny Beazley. He was going to appear as a less than four or five innings and he finally convinced Southworth it was a mistake to spit the other teams three or four runs before putting in Beazley.

So the manager made up his mind to make the lanky rookie a solid left-hander and a week later Cubs for waiver money $7,500 in a deal that shocked the baseball world. Some folks thought that the Cards were conceding the pennant to the Dodgers. It was just the other way around. From the day the Cards made this misdeed deal they won 63 games and lost just 19.

In every respect it was a managerial triumph for Southworth, who took the material that was given him by the front office and knitted it into a world championship.

As one fan said after the series, "Now the Yankees worry about the Dodgers were we against!"

New York, Oct. 7.—While American soldiers are lending baseball to the British and Australians (and causing them no end of confusion) we're getting a taste of Rugby in return.

A team of Australian and New Zealand flying fit as a preliminary to the Columbia-Brown game Saturday and two teams from the RAF flying school at Ponce City, Okla., will put on an exhibition for Oklahoma City fans a week later.

From all we hear, it's a rough, fast game, frozen for the duration, will have to be defeated. The new shift Dick Harlow, uncovered at Harvard, makes the current outside right end of the coaches' advisory committee, will be able to have it changed.

Race-hoss experts point out that the ban on special trains to the tracks is making the horse players walk both ways—instead of just walking home.

Johnny on the Spot
A lot of guys would be willing to give the shirts off their backs to help win the war, but the Reds' Johnny Vander Meer actually did it. After pitching a benefit exhibition game in Jersey the other day, Johnny contributed the shirt of his baseball uniform to the biggest war bond buy.

Excuse Cards If They Don't Stop on Way

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

New York, Oct. 6.—Wrapping up the World Series for another year, and possibly longer. It was a long time coming, but the World Series, St. Louis Cardinals finally accomplished what many were advocating years ago—champs won on their way back to St. Louis today, and if they breeze right on through town without slowing down, they should be excused.

After all, a team that can wipe out a ten-game Brooklyn lead in the National League and whip the Yankees in a five-game series, winning 47 of its last 57 starts, just doesn't know when to stop.

The Yankees are old hands at traveling, but they seem so much "country" the past few days they don't care for any "Moore"—Enos (Country) Slaughter and Ted (Country) Lyons, the crack guardians of the Cardinals' outer regions, robbed the Yankees of base hits with circus catches in every game and divided ten hits between them. The honor of beating the Yankees twice in World Series competition now is New York Giants.

The Cards all series defeat in 1926, while the Giants turned them back in the 1921 and 1922 classics.

If you're wondering why Manager Joe McCarthy didn't order the Yankees to pass intentionally with only one out, a man can remember that this same Kurowski fanned the first three times he faced Red Ruffing in the opening game. Kurowski, the homer, McCarthy probably was wondering used to see the series was the only one Kurowski brought from St. Louis, his others having been broken in the regular season.

He wouldn't let any of his mates use it in batting practice and after of his sight.

The Yanks relied entirely on right-handed pitching, marking the first time since 1922, when they also did it, that a team has gone through a World Series without pitching a left-hander.

The way they circled the bases and covered the outfield, the Cards completely ignored the new nationwide speed limit of 35 miles per hour. Mel Ott was pleased with the outcome. It was a pleasure for him to watch some team besides his Giants get lambasted by the Cards.

Shortly after yesterday's game, the hotel where the Cardinals made their headquarters changed a banner from "National League Champions" to "New World Champions." This series was the 39th inter-league battle and the 13th to end at the fifth game.

The Cards established some kind of a record by scoring in their last turn at bat in every game.

Long after the mighty throng had poured from the stadium following yesterday's final contest, a lone figure emerged and trudged slowly along the street, tired and forlorn in the gathering dusk.

A small boy ran up to him, holding out a program. The man stopped and autographed it for the lad.

"Who's that?" inquired another youngster who had watched the procedure. "Joe McCarthy," replied the young autograph seeker.

Bobcats to Seek Conference Win Over Jonesboro

The Hope Bobcats will be seeking their first conference win Friday night when they take on the Jonesboro Golden Hurricanes at Jonesboro. The Hope team dropped its first conference game to El Dorado by a score of 13 to 0.

While Hope was whipping Texarkana 16 to 6 in a non-conference contest last weekend the Jonesboro boys were taking a 14-0 licking at the hands of Batesville.

In their only conference game this season the Jonesboro lads dropped a 15 to 0 decision to the Little Rock Tigers.

Clyde Trickey, the Jonesboro mentor, has been shifting his team around on by two weeks in an effort to find a creaking combination. The Hurricanes have shown plenty of promise and are expected to give the Bobcats a tough game.

Several of the Hope boys are nursing minor injuries but all are expected to be in fair shape by Friday night.

The Bobcat offensive is built around J. C. McCullough and depends largely on power plays. However, in the Roubidoux game the Bobcats averaged half a hundred in the air, completing two of four passes.

Cards Already Planning for Next Season

St. Louis, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Most baseball clubs would be content just basking in the applause for this year's accomplishments—but not those saucy St. Louis Cardinals.

They arrived home yesterday, the highlight of the impromptu show around by 15,000 fans was the highlight of the Cardinals' season. "We hope to give you another championship club next year."

The hand blurted out with "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," the Cardinals always do when the train bearing the Cardinals hissed to a stop. The idea was good but not quite accurate. Missing were Outfielder Stan Musial, Catcher Ken C. Dea and Pitcher Lloyd Moore, all of whom had dropped off at their respective homes.

First to pop out of the train was First Baseman Johnny Evers. Apparently he was sent out as a scout for the Cardinals, came to see what the team could expect, and the others held back while Hopp was pummeled, backslapped and congratulated by the happy fans.

When they saw Hopp escape with his life, the rest ventured forth to be greeted by Missouri's governor, Forrest C. Donnell, and St. Louis Mayor, William D. Becker.

Practically everyone made a speech, none of which is expected to be included in "Rings of Honor" history. But the good humor crowd found it all wonderful.

Mike Gonzales, the coach who for his way from Cuba to St. Louis, got a big hand for his remarks. Mused Mike: "They no surprise me. Best club in baseball. Only half United States know it. September 27. Now everybody, he know it."

The great ovation was saved for Pitcher Johnny Beazley, whose pitching accounted for two of the four victories over the New York Yankees.

In the Chicago City Series just ended, Warneke was the losing pitcher in two of the four games the Cubs lost.

Had he remained with the Cards, Warneke would have collected $6,192 for the World Series. His share in the city series: Approximately $220—a difference of $5,794.

Maxie Shapiro Explodes Myth of Montgomery

Philadelphia, Oct. 7.—The myth of Bobcat Bob Montgomery's greatness was exploded last night, and today, in squat, game little Maxie Shapiro, a tough guy from New York's East Side, the fight world hails a new ranking contender for the throne of Lightweight Champion Sammy Angott.

The flashy Negro Bobcat, who whipped Lew Jenkins in a non-title bout when Jenkins wore the crown by mugging Maxie, a 5 to 1 underdog, in 10 riotous rounds that kept the crowd of 6,790 on its feet almost constantly.

Shapiro won by a split decision. Referee Benny Leonard casting the deciding vote. He weighed in at 134 3-4, a quarter pound less than the Philadelphia.

Says Command Not to Blame for RAF Losses

London, Oct. 7.—(A)—A strong force of RAF bombers made a concerted attack last night on the German industrial and railway town of Osnabrueck, the air ministry said today.

Six of our aircraft are missing, the ministry said.

Osnabrueck, a Hanover province town, was last attacked by British bombers August 17. The raid last night was the second upon Germany in as many nights.

Air Minister Sir Archibald Sinclair told the House of Commons today that 1,000 RAF bombers were reported lost over northern Europe during the nine months ended Sept. 30 but said the British were "suffering a lower rate of casualties than the German air forces attacking this country."

Asked why British losses were "so much greater than those of the Allied forces," Sinclair replied that "no Allied forces have had to face the tremendous strength of the German night fighter, anti-aircraft and searchlight defenses in western Germany."

Denying that the bomber command's policy was responsible for high losses, he said that, on the contrary, "the losses are extraordinarily low."

The loss of six planes last night indicated a force of about 120 bombers made the Osnabrueck attack, under the normal five per cent casualty ratio.

This marked the fourth night raid out of six nights this month.

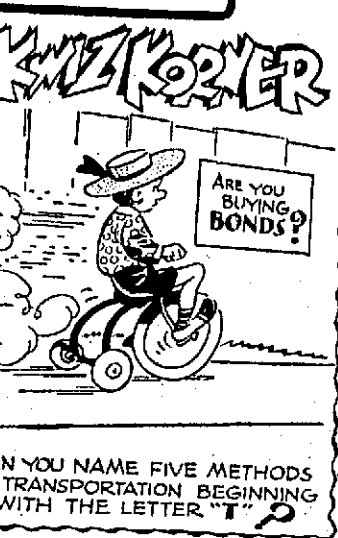

The Berlin radio broadcast a DNB report that the attack was directed at northwest Germany and some damage resulted from high explosive and incendiary bombs.

The operations followed daylight solo attacks upon points in western

Fat Lady, Sword Swallower Feud Flares—Ends in Court

Kansas City, Oct. 7.—The Ringling Brothers - Barnum and Bailey circus put on a sideshow free today before a crowded city court — the climax to a feud between the fat lady and the sword swallower.

That is, it was free for everyone except the sword swallower, Miss Patricia. She paid a $200 fine for bopping the fat lady, Baby Betty, over the head with a pop bottle in the circus dressing tent yesterday.

Even she was satisfied. Turning to six circus friends who came to testify for her, the sword swallower said:

"It was worth $200, the biggest bargain I ever got in my life."

With a clatter of tongues the circus friends trooped into Municipal Judge Smith's Chambers, promising Miss Patricia free drinks.

"Now I can sleep again," chortled Miss Hanka Keller, the long-haired Venus who testified that Betty repeatedly had threatened to sneak in and cut off her seven-foot hair some night.

Dotty Velez, Hawaiian dancer, took down her stocking to show onlookers the black and blue mark that Judge Smith — just in time — had objected to her exhibiting in court.

mean any marks the Great Shackles (stage artist and Baby Betty's husband) let on your jaw in blows he allegedly gave you yesterday in the dressing room."

The judge had hastily explained.

Despite the fact Mr. and Mrs. Charles Horrell (Baby Betty and the Great Shackles) had been discharged by the circus as a sequel in doubtful triumph, Miss Patricia Smith, the sword swallower, had been fined for cutting Baby Betty's head above the left eye with the pop bottle.

The Great Shackles had spoken up in defense of his wife, (a weight at 650 pounds) was trying to list the performers she believed present at her bopping.

"There was the little girl, midgey — and that long-haired girl and another, of them Hula dancers."

The Great Shackles opened his mouth and was about to utter a sound when Baby Betty spoke loudly:

"Now you just quiet honey — it's my chance to talk — you'll get your later."

The Great Shackles, who admitted circus posters didn't go half far enough in asserting there were no bonds or handcuffs that could hold him — well, long — listened intently to Ada May, the snake handler, testify:

Even the boss hired another fat woman on account of Baby Betty being such a trouble maker, but he let Baby Betty stay on until he knew what to do, because he fell for poor old Shackles."

Shackles had turned a trusting beginning of a wistful smile when Baby Betty's elbow happened to catch him in the ribs.

Chances of accidental death from the moment of birth have been estimated at 16 to 1.

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

Proposed by the General Assembly and filed in the office of the Secretary of State on the 27th day of March, 1941.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES AND SENATE OF THE STATE OF ARKANSAS, A MAJORITY OF BOTH HOUSES AGREEING THEREON: THAT THE FOLLOWING IS HEREBY PROPOSED AS AN AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF ARKANSAS, AND THE SAME BEING SUBMITTED TO THE ELECTIONS OF THE STATE FOR APPROVAL OR REJECTION AT THE NEXT GENERAL ELECTION FOR SENATORS AND REPRESENTATIVES, IF A MAJORITY THEREON ADOPT SUCH AMENDMENT, THE SAME SHALL BECOME A PART OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF ARKANSAS, TO-WIT:

Section 1. Whenever in any county where there is located a public hospital owned by such county or by any municipal corporation therein, whether such hospital be operated by such county or municipal corporation or by a benevolent association as the agent or lessee of such county or municipal corporation, one hundred or more electors of such county shall file a petition with the county judge asking that an annual tax on real and personal property in such county be levied for the purpose of maintaining, operating and supporting such hospital and shall specify rate of taxation not exceeding one mill on the dollar of the assessed value of real and personal property in the county. The question as to whether such tax shall be levied shall be submitted to the qualified electors of such county at a general election. Such petition must be filed at least thirty days prior to the election at which it will be submitted to the voters. The county judge upon the filing of such petition shall notify the county board of election commissioners thereof and the county board of election commissioners shall cause the question to be placed upon the ballot in substantially the following form:

FOR A ..... mill tax on real and personal property to be used for maintenance, operation and support of a public hospital.

AGAINST A ..... Mill tax on real and personal property to be used for maintenance, operation and support of a public hospital.

Section 2. The election commissioners shall certify to the county judge the result of the vote and if a majority of the qualified electors voting on the question at such election vote in favor of the specified tax then it shall thereafter be continually levied and collected as other general taxes of

Eastman Hotel to Be Used As Hospital

Washington, Oct. 7.—Representative Norrell (D-Ark.) said today the War department had advised him. It would institute condemnation proceedings within a few days for acquisition of the Eastman hotel in Hot Springs, Ark., for use as an annex to the Army - Navy General hospital there.

The representative said he understood that the action did not necessarily mean that there was no price agreement between the owners and the government, but the suit would be filed as part of a formal proceeding. He said he did not know price figures involved.

The War Department, Norrell said, planned to construct an overpass across the street separating the present hospital and the hotel at a cost of about $5,000; rearrange the elevators at a cost of about $4,000 and remove some partitions to form wards at a cost not yet estimated.

When alterations were completed, he said, the hotel would provide an additional 500 beds to be operated as an annex. Sufficient physicians and nurses to care for the increased capacity would be sent to Hot Springs, Norrell added.

Our men need tanks, ships and guns, The steel for these must be made from 50% scrap metal. But the Nation's steel mills don't have enough scrap on hand to last even 30 days more! Keep 'em running. Help build up a huge scrap stockpile—the bigger the better.

Your Neglect Will Cost Some Brave Boy's Life!

Go down into your basement—your store-room. Climb up to the attic too. Look at the unused stuff you're sure to find, and realize how important these odds and ends can be. Important to a kid half way around the world. Important to a blue-clad glib—to a flyer, racing to reach the target before some knifing Messerschmitt can find its mark.

That old metal means steel for these men. And steel means armor plate for safety—weapons and ships for Victory.

Without it they'll die. They're not afraid of that—but it's better to give a life for a cause than to be sacrificed by thoughtlessness. And it's better yet to live, knowing that the folks back home didn't let them down.

And we won't let them down! Monday starts our big scrap collection drive—and you're going to help make it a good one. Don't let up because you see a full junk yard or a brimming salvage depot. That's the way they've got to be to make sure the mills won't run out!

Watch this paper for details of the big scrap drive and what you must do to help
